

Story Sequence - Jack and the Beanstalk

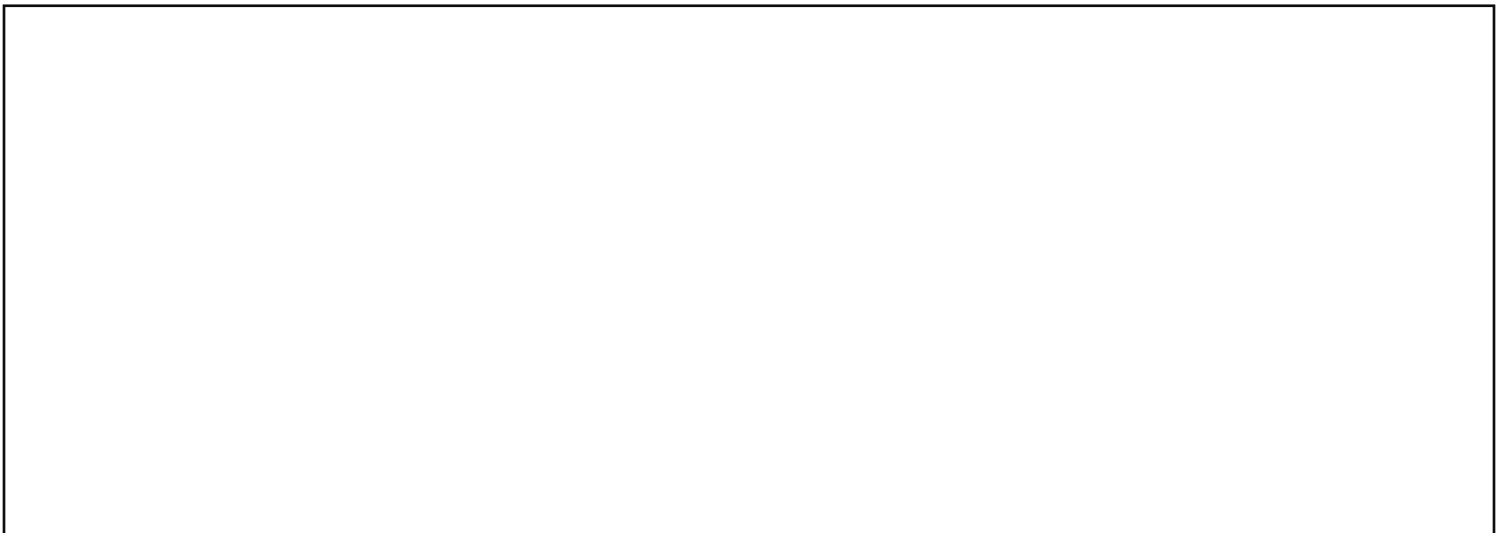

1. Draw a picture of Jack selling his cow. Write on the line if this happened first, second, or third in the story. _____

2. Draw a picture of the giant climbing down the beanstalk and Jack cutting the stalk. Write if this happened first, second or third. _____

3. Draw a picture of Jack climbing down the beanstalk carrying a hen, harp and bag of coins. Did this happen first, second or third? _____

A New Ending – Jack and the Beanstalk

Write a different ending to the story of Jack and the Beanstalk. Maybe the giant never finds out Jack took the hen and harp and gold. Maybe Jack never chops down the beanstalk and the giant destroys the village. Maybe Jack's mom and the giant fall in love. You choose. Be creative.

“Take these,” said the giantess. She handed him the bag with the gold coins, the hen and the harp. “My husband stole them from your village ten years ago.”

“Thank you, ma’am.” Said Jack.

“Now go. Before he wakes up. Hurry.”

Jack ran to the door. He shoved the bag under the door first. It was a tight fit, but Jack shoved it through. Then he slid himself under the door and hurried for the beanstalk. Jack tied the bag around his waist and started climbing back down.
